A whirl in the funnel cugolino - cuboro's new construction set cugolino, the product of the Swiss company cuboro offers children from approximately three years upwards an exciting challenge in terms of building and rolling as well as optimum conditions for the entry into the three-dimensional world of the cuboro marble track system. Surprising marble track systems and imaginative buildings can be created from these 37 beech wood elements. The cugolino construction set perfectly suits to the proven cuboro marble track system.

cugolino - building and rolling from 3 years upwards

Matthias Etter, toy inventor and CEO of cuboro Ltd., offers with cugolino a simple start into the world of the cuboro marble track system. "We fulfil an often expressed wish by our customers and developed a new construction set for children from the age of approximately three years upwards. Besides, cugolino is compatible with the cuboro marble track system," Matthias Etter explains. Special are, among other things, the visible tracks with long elements, simple construction parts for acceleration and change of level. The partially dye stained beech wood blocks bring colour to the game. Trick-, diagonal- and funnel elements ensure surprises - also for "long-standing" cuboro players. "All cugolino elements are compatible with the cuboro marble track system. Amazing and exciting constructions can be created," states Matthias Etter.

cugolino - a high-quality Swiss product cugolino was given the German "Spiel gut" award. This new construction set is manufactured in Switzerland and the precisely finished beech wood cubes are FSC-accredited, meaning wood coming from exemplary cultivated forests. The 37 elements are packed in a colourful cardboard case with an additional solid cloth bag for tidy storage, available in specialized toy stores.
